Local Government Trends in Citizen Engagement:

Township Results from the Fall 2012 Michigan Public Policy Survey (MPPS)

Presentation by the Center for Local, State, and Urban Policy (CLOSUP) for the Michigan Townships Association Annual Educational Conference January 24, 2013
Presentation Outline

- Overview of the Michigan Public Policy Survey (MPPS)
- Summary of findings on citizen engagement among Michigan township governments
- Brief look at technology and citizen engagement
What is CLOSUP?

- A small research center founded at the Ford School of Public Policy in 2001

- Primary mission to conduct and support applied academic research that informs local, state, and urban policy issues, both in Michigan and beyond
What is the MPPS?

- A Census Survey
  - Targeted respondents are the chief elected and chief appointed official in every Michigan county, city, township, and village
  - Conducted twice per year
  - Administered online and via hardcopy questionnaire
  - 72% of jurisdictions statewide responded in each of the past three waves
  - Survey content developed in close partnership with MML, MTA, and MAC, and Advisory Committees of topic experts
What does the MPPS aim to do?

- Provide information to local leaders about peers across the state, spread best practices and grass-roots innovative solutions.

- Help inform policy discussions among state and local policymakers with information about challenges at the local level that is not available from any other source.

- Build a longitudinal data archive to allow tracking of fundamental changes.

- Foster academic research and teaching on local government issues.

“When talking with people either one on one or by phone I always invite them to our monthly meetings. Ask if they would be interested in being put on a list of people interested in serving on committees. Only the same two or three people ever attend our township meetings unless it is something directly associated with them personally. Once their issue is discussed they leave.”

“The township has a new wind farm being built at this time. It has been the planning stages for at least two years... There were a small group of residents who did not want the farm to be built so they were very verbal about the project and tried to put a stop to it. It resulted in very contentious meetings both at the Board of Trustees’ meetings and the Planning Commission meetings. This group tried to get the project stopped legally but when that failed, they have stopped being so involved in the meetings.”
