

From the Spring 2024 Michigan Public Policy Survey

Michigan local leaders' nuanced views on police accountability

1 Michigan local leaders support the use of a misconduct database, but are less supportive of a public-facing database

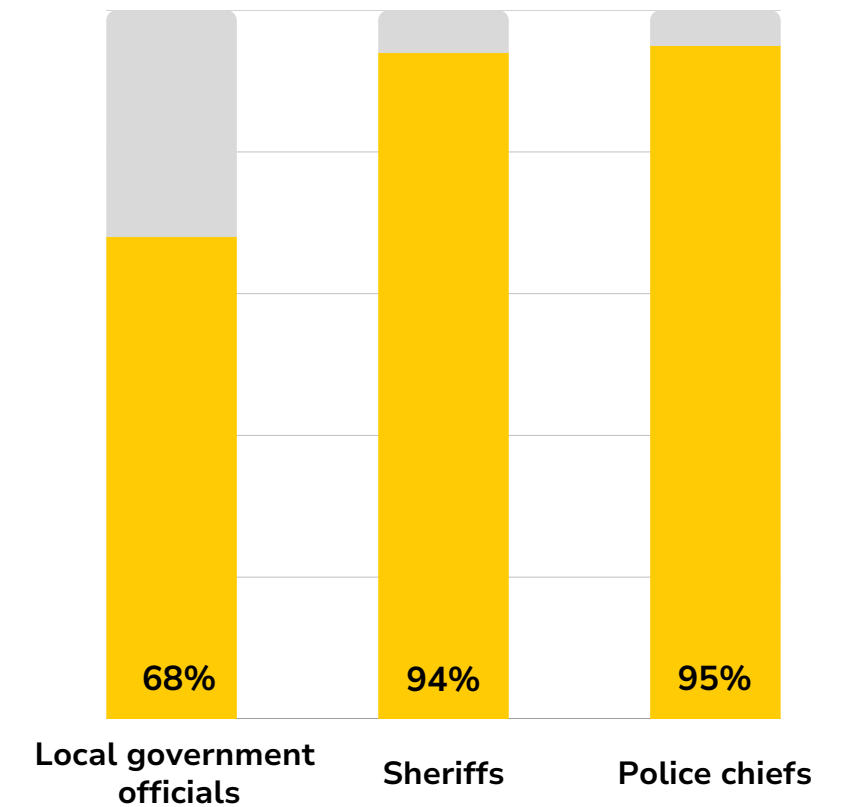

% who support a misconduct database, accessible only to law enforcement agencies

% who support a misconduct database, accessible to the public

2 Law enforcement leaders prefer misconduct investigations to be conducted by State Police or other law enforcement

3 Law enforcement leaders believe public trusts officer misconduct oversight; local officials are more skeptical

% who believe their residents are confident that law enforcement officers' misconduct will be dealt with effectively